PLASMA SURGES ON SECOND DAY

Two down, three to go! As the second day of the McGill Blood Donor Clinic came to a close, and after extensive tabulations had been completed the faculty of Commerce was found to be in the lead for Bloody Mary, with 19.5% of its members contributing. Numerically the plumbers are in the lead with 319 pints of blood having been donated. A total of 787 pints have been received by the Red Cross from the McGill Blood Donor Clinic.

Yesterday a new trophy, bearing the relevant title "Bloody Boris", was added to the table in the clinic. The Upsilon Chi fraternity house contributed this stunning boar's head (the actual award) for competition amongst the graduate faculties of Law, Divinity, Medicine, Dentistry, and Social Work.

Yesterday, disapproval was expressed by the University authorities, because of the footsteps and signs that were painted on campus by the blood donor committee. Buildings and Grounds spent most of the day wiping up the last traces of the gory trail. This failed to stem the tide — the red stuff still found its way into the Union! One of the Clinic Staff was shaking a can of paint, neglecting to hold his fingers over the top. The whole thing exploded leaving the young man concerned rather red and the floor of the Union workshop a "bloody" mess! Norm Samuels, the President of the ASUS, announced yesterday that there will be a mass rally in front of the Arts Building. This ceremony will be in the way of throwing down the gauntlet of challenge. Mr. Samuels will address the students, then the cheerleaderettes will cheer for Chris. Students are requested to participate. Pamphlets containing the cheer will be distributed throughout the morning. Following the festivities the executive of the ASUS will lead the students to the Union to donate blood.

Students Debate Faculty Tonight

Dean Frost of Divinity and Professor MacKinnon of the Philosophy Department will face a student team of Stuart Smith and Peter Millard in the second debate of the Debating Union's Exhibition Series at 8:30 Thursday night in Redpath Hall. The topic will be "Resolved that God is Dead."

The professors in this year's Faculty Debate will attack the resolution, with the students taking the affirmative. The chairman will be Rev. E. C. Knowles, the University Chaplain.

Smith is Vice-President of the Students' Society and President of the McGill Union; he is active in debating and has a Gold A Award. Millard was last year's winner of the Talbot-Papineau Public Speaking Trophy, and is a finalist in the Open Trials.

Debating enthusiasts on campus recommend this up and coming lesson on "student-professor relationships" as an evening of more than routine interest and entertainment.

SEC Battles Meds In Union Debate

by Simon Gulden

A panel of speakers representing the Medical Undergraduate Society and the Students' Executive Council discussed the question whether the Medical Undergraduate Society is justified in asking for more money from the Students' Executive Council in the Union Ballroom yesterday at 1 p.m.

This issue comes to a vote at a Students' Society meeting, Wednesday, November 6, at 1 p.m. in the Ballroom of the McGill Students' Union.

David Freedman analyzed the debate by asking the question whether the medical students can participate within the framework of the Students' Society; do we need an amendment in the Constitution; and what does this mean for the future of the Students' Society?

Stuart Smith, president of the McGill Students' Union and Vice-President of the Students' Society, and Roy Heenan, a first year Law Student and past Arts and Science representative on the S.E.C., presented the point of view held by the S.E.C. James Menard, Treasurer of the M.U.S., stated the position held by his respective faculty. David Freedman, President of the McGill Debating Union, was chairman of this meeting.

Arguments

The debates on the positive side of the House reiterated the following points.

The individual medical student is not interested and even more incapable of participating in activities planned by the S.E.C. Thus the medical student cannot benefit from these activities other than those planned and directed by the M.U.S. itself.

The negative debaters thrust home the following points. The problem is not a new one. The audience were referred back to a similar situation which occurred three years ago. The point then was that the M.U.S. received a certain sum and over half of it was spent on parties.

Every point brought out on both sides of the House were stoutly rebutted by the opposing speakers. The debate waxed hot and heavy for the noon hour period, (oblivious of the thriving blood traffic in the adjacent hallway) and at its end both opinions had been upheld valiently, both sides staunchly adamant in their respective answers to the problem.

Woman's Union Bursary Approved

The Women's Union has announced that a new Women's Union Scholarship was accepted and approved by the University Senate last week. The terms of the scholarship were drawn up and approved as follows:

"This scholarship of the value of $275.00 to $350.00 is awarded annually by the University Scholarships Committee in consultation with the President of the McGill Women's Union, another senior woman, and the Warden of the Royal Victoria College, to a woman undergraduate in any degree course, who has completed at least a year's study on this campus. This award is to be made to a student who has at least a good second class average, an interest in extra-curricular activities, and financial need. No distinction shall be made on the basis of nationality, race or creed."

Scholarship Fund

The Scholarship fund was started by Women's Union last year. The fund at present consists of about $800.00, raised last year through the Women's Union Bazaar, the Royal Doulton China display, and a donation from the McGill Panhellenic Council. This year the Women's Union intends to add to the fund with profits received from the Fair which will be held early in November, the Royal Doulton display which will be held this coming Thursday, and any Women's Union activities at which an admission fee is charged.

The Women's Union, in drawing up the terms of the scholarship, has tried to make it available to as many women as possible. Therefore emphasis has not been placed on scholarship exclusively, for it was felt that those of particularly high standing are provided for by other scholarships; nor has emphasis been placed on extra-curricular activities or on particular financial need, but rather a combination of all these factors will be considered when determining the winner of the award. The terms have been made very broad and quite flexible, so that any deserving, all-round girl of average means and scholastic ability may be eligible for the award.

ALBERTA ADDS NEW COMPUTER

The University of Alberta can now boast of a $50,000 digital computer. The machine, known as the LGP-30, will compute any numerical quantity within the limits of its practicability.

At present, the computer is in use at the university in a search for theories. An experiment is performed manually, then various theories which may produce the desired result are pumped into the machine. If the result is achieved, the theory used is accepted as correct.

The computer does not entirely replace human effort. It will produce statistical results, but a program, mapping out in special binary code, each and every step to be followed, must be inserted in the machine before it can produce results. In other words, it merely calculates, — all procedure involved must be undertaken manually.

Before the U of A obtained the machine, computing was done by another machine, called the Ferut, at the University of Toronto. Coded material was prepared in Edmonton and sent by teletype once a week to Toronto; the results were tabulated and returned the same night.

An oscilloscope is included on the machine, and it enables operators to follow or monitor the procedures, step by step as they are carried out.

Another special piece of apparatus on the LGP-30 is the "Flexewriter" a form of typewriter. It inserts programs and data in advance and types out the results of the machine's cogitations. Although it is possible to type information directly into the computer, it is considered safer to deliver data by means of code-punched tapes, to minimize errors.

It is important that the data fed in be correct. The computer will calculate even if the programming is wrong. However feeding the machine incorrect information will result in an off base answer.

This machine will be used mainly by members of the physics staff and by graduate students.

Editorials

Galloned To The Good

Wandering around in the gloomy depths of the Union basement last night, we came across an apparition. It was a run-of-the-mill apparition; it had sunken cheeks and the usual expression of hopelessness and despair. Its complexion was pasty-white, and it wore a white sheet. But unlike most ghosts, this one was splattered from head to toe with blood. All of which brings us to the point.

It is wasteful to go around bleeding indiscriminately like that. The Red Cross needs blood. They do not ask us to donate it for a farmer in India, or a soldier in the Middle East. Blood we give will be used to save the life of a fellow student, or a friend, or a relative.

Giving blood is both painless and harmless. Besides this, it gives one a permanent record of his blood type, which could prove vital in the case of accident. And we may rest assured that the blood we give will not be wasted; all blood not used fresh is stored as plasma until it is needed.

Each year, a good number of McGill students turn out to donate blood. Competition is keen between the various faculties, the fraternities, the sororities. But "a good number" is not enough. EVERY healthy student should be willing to bleed for Old McGill.

To end on a gruesome note, "the People in the Know" assured us that the apparition we saw was not a publicity stunt thought up to boost the Blood Drive. Visit the Union Workshop — you will see a pool of blood on the floor.

On Being Canadian

It has been the fad for years now for Canadians to carp at the significance of their nationality. The typical attitude is that of apology for being a member of a nation that supposedly has no clear national character. That the outside world does not necessarily share this view was brought home to us in a talk we heard recently. A representative of the External Affairs Department was speaking to students on possible careers in that service and casually made the comment that Canada was an easy country to represent.

Here is the touchstone of the quality of this country. Canada has a fine reputation in world politics based on a fair and balanced approach to problems that has won respect in all corners of the globe.

One area in which her achievements and reputation stand out is in Asia, the focus of the Colombo Plan. Last week it was announced that the 1958 contribution will be $35,000,000 the largest yet. To date Canada has given $197 millions under this plan and has thus contributed signally to the development of these underdeveloped countries. Moreover consideration is now being given to grants to Ghana and the new Federation of the West Indies.

This policy of grant-aid is a considerable achievement for a country that is not even rated as one of the Big Five. The role that Canada is playing and will be playing is greater than her citizens are aware of. Canadians have much to be proud of and it does mean something to be Canadian. Canada is an easy country to represent; not because it has no positive character or policy but because it has been able to win friends and influence people in the difficult arena of world politics.

letters from old europe

by David Silverberg

David Silverberg, who graduated from McGill last spring, is now studying the Humanities at the Sorbonne. A former cartoonist for the Daily, he will be commenting from time to time on customs, people, and things in general in his new environment.

There is something consistently remarkable about Paris. This statement remains true even after we eliminate the vast assortment of beautiful monuments, women, museums and historical knick knacks that infest this city.

Last Wednesday I awoke, grabbed a hurried cold breakfast (a glass of wine and a baguette) and rushed off to what I imagined would be just another day at Atelier 17. This is the etching school in the Latin Quarter (just three doors from Modigliani's old studio) that I am attending. But no sooner had I arrived at the St. Ambroise Metro when it was forcibly brought home to me that this day was not comme les autres. Had I wanted to use the Metro or the radio, or the gas stove or even my Sunbeam; I would not have been able to. The reason was that the electrical and gas workers were on strike, demanding an eighty percent increase in take home pay. The remarkable thing however was that despite the considerable confusion no one I met seemed to take this as something extraordinary. No one, that is, except a few newly arrived foreigners. The strike having terminated there is no indication that these demands are in any way forthcoming.

If you were in Paris and wanted (as I did) to see a performance of the Comedie Francaise or perhaps the Paris Opera, you could have stood on your head and whistled the Marseillaise without obtaining any results. Both these wonderful institutions were closed because of the strike. Why even the prison guards at the Sante Prison staged a strike. All very interesting you might say, but here in Paris it is certainly not something remarkable.

Lest this lead to the assumption that the workers have a substantial amount of power and that the liberties of free speech and free press are in fact complete, perhaps a glance at last Thursday's activities would provide us with a wider focus.

The Communist Party called a mass protest demonstration against the French Algerian policy. This is a very formidable topic in France (along with the Asiatic Flu and Inflation) and one does not have to go very far before encountering various "Paix en Algerie" or "Algerie pour la France".

Letters To The Editor

Early Morning Club

Sir:

We thought that McGill was a democracy! All our earnest attempts to form a club have been stymied by the ruthless, maladjusted Managing Board of the Daily.

They print articles and letters on free-love, and sex, submitted by their little clique of friends, but they step on a new struggling group such as ourselves.

Continual attempts to publicize our club's many and varied activities have been squashed. We have tried, Lord knows we have tried, but to not avail. Will someone please tell us what we have to do!

ce" scribbles, on the walls. Accordingly this demonstration was banned; which did not mean it did not take place but only that it was illegal. What impressed me much more than the banners of the demonstration was the most formidable array of military dorries, police vans, radio cars etc. all about the Place de Republic and other focal points.

It would appear that Algeria is too touchy a subject in France and strange as it seems papers are not permitted to print interviews or articles which show the government and its troops to be in the wrong. Those that have done so have had their issues impounded. And this is true of Liberal and Non-Communist papers as well.

If France has certain aspects which are somewhat trying to us, it has others which we would do well to emulate. The position of the student is one of these. The student here is literally fawned upon. He can eat a meal for seventy-five francs (roughly fifteen cents). He has passage to the museums, special prices to the theatre, excursions at reduced rates; he can move about Europe whether by hostel, plane, train or thumb at very little expense. The school facilities as far as I have seen are very good, but along with all of this what impresses one immediately is the general attitude of dedication among the students. I say immediately, because at McGill this was not the first thing one noticed.

What is remarkable about Paris then is that the student can find time to study — but does he?

FELLOW ARTS AND SCIENCE MEN

Blood is Life. The donation of a pint of blood is not only a symbol of one's irrevocable and total involvement with the rest of mankind; this one pint, so easily given, can mean life to someone.

The power of men at its fullest can certainly be no more magnificent than this: To give of oneself that another may be brought from death's door to life, laughter, feeling and achievement. No greater gift — and paradoxically such at such small cost — could anyone conceivably give. Imagining oneself in the position of needing blood and not receiving it — is sufficient a thought to encourage even the most selfish.

But then these are ideas that can appeal only to intelligent, sensitive students. How, then, can these other faculties expect to win the interfaculty competition? Bloody Mary shall be won by Arts and Science this year, and the executives of the other undergraduate societies shall be given ample opportunity to repent.

They will be able to achieve their personal goals and natural places in the scheme of things by swabbing down the Arts Building steps to the cheers of the victorious occupants of that majestic edifice.

Architects are known to have the richest, reddest blood in the world, and to be happy to share it with those who are less fortunate. For this reason, I do not think it necessary to urge you to donate to the Red Cross.

However, architects are also known as ones who never rest; people wonder if we ever sleep. At this time, I appeal to you to relax for a few minutes while donating in order to make work a little easier for those fragile Red Cross attendants.

UN Club Sponsors Pilgrimage To NY For Eligible 37

As "promised" at Activities Night, the United Nations Club of McGill University will again sponsor a trip to New York during the second week-end in November. This trip is not only open to members of the U.N. Club, but to all interested students who wish to participate in this excursion.

A bus holding 37 passengers will be chartered from the Greyhound Transport Company. It will leave Montreal early Saturday morning, November 9, and will arrive in New York late in the afternoon. Accommodations will be made in the Empire Hotel, Broadway and 63rd Ave.

No plans have been made for Saturday evening and Sunday. However, on Monday there will be a guided tour of the United Nations Headquarters.

The bus will leave New York Monday evening and will arrive in Montreal early Tuesday morning. The total cost of this trip is $25, including transportation and room. Food and personal expenses are not covered by the above sum.

All those interested in participating in the trip to New York will please contact Cecile Kalifon, RE. 3-3014, or sign a form from George at the Tuck Shop.

Final Dance Aids Charities Drive

The Toronto Dance, the last football dance of the season, will be held in the Sir Authur Currie Gymnasium on Saturday, November 3. Peter Barry and his eleven piece orchestra will play from 8:30 p.m. until midnight.

The dance is being floated by the Freshman Reception Committee in aid of the Combined Charities. At the dance will be booths containing games of chance sponsored by DuPont, C.I.L., Steinberg's, J.B. Williams, Imperial Tobacco, and the Fry-Cadbury Corp. They will be held in combination with a half-time display put on by the band.

"We are going 'all-out' on this dance," said an executive representative of the sponsoring committee, "in the first place, it is the last of the official football dances; secondly, we are running the dance in aid of charity; and thirdly, we expect a large group of University of Toronto supporters to sail into Montreal to cheer their team. Get your dates early for the dance of the season, the tickets are $1."

The Red and White Revue Production for 1958 is underway. There will be a meeting for all students who would like to participate in writing the book, music and lyrics tomorrow at 7:30 pm in the Union.

Drive After Drain Charities Appeal

From its hole-in-the-wall across the ball from the Daily, the Combined Charities Campaign at McGill is ready to sail. Starting in the wake of the blood drive, the campaign hopes to hit the students while they are still feeling generous.

The objective of the campaign this year is to raise $10,000 from the faculty and undergraduates of McGill. This is McGill's only fund-raising activity during the year. The money raised is used as McGill's contribution to the World University Service, and to the three principal charities in this city.

Ulla May Stenman, Anita Jonas, and John Lochead, co-chairmen of canvassing, have a miniature navy ready to move into action Monday.

Leading the activities will be a display at half-time of the Toronto game Saturday, which will be put on again by the band and the S.A.C. Saturday night. The closing football dance will feature, as a side-light, a number of booths which will present games of chance in carnival style. Among the booths will be a ring-toss, (which involves looping a ring about the upward-tilted limbs of some brave and beautiful co-ed volunteers) a putting green and chipping lay-out for golf enthusiasts, a Flying Saucer booth, and various others. Proceeds from the booths will go to the Combined Charities.

The official opening of the campaign will take place at twelve pm on Monday, November 4. Instead of the penny mile which has been used in past years, a crest will be painted on the campus just below the founder's tomb. This crest will be filled in with pennies and silver. When asked if the crest might not fill in a little faster than the penny mile has done in the past, Harvey Richmond, chairman of the opening, was quoted as saying, "So? Sweep the money up and fill 'er in again." A sports car calvalcade will tour the campus around twelve, and the crest will remain in place until late in the afternoon.

The dance is being floated by the Freshman Reception Committee in aid of the Combined Charities. At the dance will be booths containing games of chance sponsored by DuPont, C.I.L., Steinberg's, J.B. Williams, Imperial Tobacco, and the Fry-Cadbury Corp. They will be held in combination with a half-time display put on by the band.

"We are going 'all-out' on this dance," said an executive representative of the sponsoring committee, "in the first place, it is the last of the official football dances; secondly, we are running the dance in aid of charity; and thirdly, we expect a large group of University of Toronto supporters to sail into Montreal to cheer their team. Get your dates early for the dance of the season, the tickets are $1."

The Red and White Revue Production for 1958 is underway. There will be a meeting for all students who would like to participate in writing the book, music and lyrics tomorrow at 7:30 pm in the Union.

Drive After Drain Charities Appeal

From its hole-in-the-wall across the ball from the Daily, the Combined Charities Campaign at McGill is ready to sail. Starting in the wake of the blood drive, the campaign hopes to hit the students while they are still feeling generous.

The objective of the campaign this year is to raise $10,000 from the faculty and undergraduates of McGill. This is McGill's only fund-raising activity during the year. The money raised is used as McGill's contribution to the World University Service, and to the three principal charities in this city.

Ulla May Stenman, Anita Jonas, and John Lochead, co-chairmen of canvassing, have a miniature navy ready to move into action Monday.

Leading the activities will be a display at half-time of the Toronto game Saturday, which will be put on again by the band and the S.A.C. Saturday night. The closing football dance will feature, as a side-light, a number of booths which will present games of chance in carnival style. Among the booths will be a ring-toss, (which involves looping a ring about the upward-tilted limbs of some brave and beautiful co-ed volunteers) a putting green and chipping lay-out for golf enthusiasts, a Flying Saucer booth, and various others. Proceeds from the booths will go to the Combined Charities.

The official opening of the campaign will take place at twelve pm on Monday, November 4. Instead of the penny mile which has been used in past years, a crest will be painted on the campus just below the founder's tomb. This crest will be filled in with pennies and silver. When asked if the crest might not fill in a little faster than the penny mile has done in the past, Harvey Richmond, chairman of the opening, was quoted as saying, "So? Sweep the money up and fill 'er in again." A sports car calvalcade will tour the campus around twelve, and the crest will remain in place until late in the afternoon.

Soccerettes Draw In Twilight Duel

by Cecile Kalifon

"Who has a flashlight?" was heard throughout the game as the McGill Women's Soccer team tangled with the Westmount Senior squad yesterday evening on the lightless Lower Campus. Perhaps they didn't see the ball at all, since the game finished in a 0-0 tie. Illuminated only by the constellations and "Sputnik", the end of the game saw everyone playing on one team including the referees. They swiped at what was thought to be the ball but found themselves digging craters across the field.

The Red and White team greatly outplayed their high school competitors because 1) they had no matrices on their mind, and 2) they had the experience of playing one whole game, losing to MacDonald 2-0. All their other games in this exhibition schedule were rained out.

From a spectator's point of view (or rather a boy's) the Westmount team seemed more attractive. Wearing bright mauve sweaters and short pleated skirts, they appeared sweet and fairy-like as they romped about the grass. The only masculine attire was a pair of shin guards to protect their dainty feet.

The strong McGill team out-rushed, out-kicked, and out-shoved their foes. Paula Good, goalie, handled all her four shots brilliantly while her counterpart, Amelen de Brenhanig did likewise. A rule stating that two guards must be ahead of opposing forwards hindered McGill, as brilliant rushes by Andrea Lough, Barbara Cope, Marika Salamis and Co., were sent to waste. If this rule was not observed an off-side was called. The Westmount team hardly suffered from this ruling as the stiff defense thrown up by Barb Richards and Marg Robertson prevented any invasion of McGill territory. Great defense work by Westmounters, Margaret Dairs and Tory Lirsch, prevented McGill from piling up a fantastic score.

This "play in the dark" consisted of four eight minute periods. Between quarters, delicious, freezing oranges were served by yours truly.

Teachers Toppled In Soccer Tussle

by Perry Guralnick

The Red and White soccer team last night downed the State Teachers College of Plattsburg, N.Y. 3-0 in another good exhibition game.

Mike Carpenter, late of tennis fame, scored the opening goal early in the first half to spark the team on to victory. Both teams went scoreless for the rest of the half although McGill missed several scoring opportunities when the ball sailed over the top of the net rather than into it.

The second half opened fast with McGill's right-wing Orpheus Vosniades

Dance To Dodman At Pep Rally

A giant Pep Rally will be held at the Union this Friday night starting at 8:30. Dancing to Mike Dodman and his orchestra will highlight the evening. Larry Sullivan will be on hand with some of the Redmen and will discuss his team's chances of winning the football championship.

The Toronto supporters will arrive at about 10:30 at Windsor station and have been formally invited to the Pep Rally. As usual, a large aggregation of McGill students is expected to meet the train, and escort the Torontonians.

Admission to the Pep Rally is only 35 cents, and refreshments will be served.

McGill athletic fans are reminded to keep Saturday, December 7th "open" for one of the feature events on the athletic curriculum.

Westmount Defeat Ruggerman 6-0

by Stan Hopmeyer

The Westmount Worriers brought McGill's three game winning streak to an abrupt end by defeating an improved McGill squad 6-0.

The highlight of the first half was the fine defensive play of the Red and White team. Time after time the Worriers' rushes were thwarted by hard tackling which caused them to fumble deep in McGill territory.

After seven minutes of play in the second half, the Westmount Team caught McGill off guard with a quick throw-in which resulted in a touchdown. This put the 'Mount in front 3-0. However the convert attempt was kicked wide of the goal-posts. After pressing and holding McGill in their own end of the field, the Worriers closed the scoring of the game with their second unconverted touchdown at the 30 minute mark of the half.

All players are requested to attend the practice on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in preparation for the Intercollegiate Title Game against the University of Toronto.

Bloody Survey

McGill Faltering In Blood Drive

The McGill Blood Donor Clinic reports that donations yesterday fell short of the objective. The quota of five hundred pints was missed by approximately 25%.

In order to spur Arts and Science students to be more generous with their blood, a pep rally was held in front of the steps of the Arts Building. Cheerleaderettes, decked out in full nurses' regalia sang praises to Chris Corpuscule. Norman Samuels, President of Arts and Science Undergraduate Society, addressed his faculty, and, accompanied by the cheerleaderettes and band, led a parade of donors to the Union.

Fraternities are not donating as well as expected. However Lambda Chi is in the lead with 41 pints.

Let it be recalled that this drive is a national competition. In order for McGill to capture the National prize, donated by the Faculty of Forestry at the University of British Columbia, many more students will have to bleed.

As of yesterday, the Birks Trophy, award for the annual competition between McGill and the University of Montreal, was closer to the French-speaking university.

Resolution Pleads For Govt. Help

QUEBEC, Oct. 30 — Laval University students have adopted a resolution asking the provincial government to raise its grants to meet 60 per cent of the university's teaching costs.

L'Association General des Etudiants de l'Université Laval approved the resolution at a monthly meeting yesterday. It was drawn up by students in the social science faculty.

In 1953, the resolution says, students provided the money for 34.1 per cent of the university's expenditure. Government grants provided 31.6 per cent.

"SPACE TRAVEL" LECTURE TODAY

The first of a series of lectures sponsored by the Students' Physics Society will be delivered today by Dr. E. R. Pounder, associate Professor of Physics. Professor Pounder will discuss "Satellites and Space Travel" at 1 pm in Room 102 of the Physics Building.

He will touch on some of the less publicized aspects of "Sputnik", such as its launching rocket and the problems involved in getting the satellite into an orbit.

In Demand as Lecturer

Since the launching of "Sputnik" by Russia, Dr. Pounder has been in constant demand as a lecturer on the subject, and he has addressed various groups on the campus and elsewhere, among them the RCAF, Knights of Pythias, Bell Telephone and press conferences.

A Montrealer, Dr. Pounder received his Ph.D. at McGill in 1937, then spent three years with the Bell Telephone Company. During the last war, he held the rank of Wing Commander in the RCAF and lectured on navigation. Up until a few years ago, he worked in the McGill Radiation Laboratory.

Presently engaged in ice physics research, Dr. Pounder's interest in space travel goes back much farther than "Sputnik". In 1950, he spoke on the subject to the Canadian Institute of Navigation.

Having been acquainted with navigational and astronomical fields of study for some time, Professor Pounder is considered an authority on the subject of space travel and its problems.

"God is Dead" is Subject of Debate At Redpath Hall

"Resolved that God is dead" is the topic the Debating Union has chosen for the Faculty Debate tonight at 8:30 in Redpath Hall. Dean S.B. Frost of the Faculty of Divinity and Professor A.T. McKinnon of the Philosophy Department will oppose the resolution against Students' Society Vice-President Stuart Smith and Open Trials winner Peter Millard. Rev. E.C. Knowles, University Chaplain and Student Counsellor, will chair the debate.

According to Debating Union President David Freedman, the topic has a strange background. The question was originally raised by Nietzsche, and comes to the Faculty Debate via French Existentialist Jean-Paul Sartre and pundit Walter Lippman.

The faculty team is well qualified to discuss this topic.

Faculty Representatives

Dean Frost came to McGill in March 1956 from Didsbury College, Bristol, where he was professor of Old Testament studies. He received his Ph. D. in theology from the Marburg University in Germany. Dean Frost succeeded Dr. J.S. Thomson as Dean of the Faculty of Divinity this year. In 1955 he was a delegate to the Methodist Missionary Council in Nigeria.

Professor McKinnon began lecturing at McGill in 1950, and is now Assistant Professor of Philosophy. He has a B.A. and an M.A. from the University of Toronto and received his B.D. from McGill in 1957.

Stuart Smith is a Montrealer who attended West Hill High School before entering McGill's Science Faculty in 1954. He is now in fourth year Honours Psychology and holds a University Scholarship. He won the A.S.U.S. Novice Tournament in his first year, and last year was a member of the Debating Union Executive, Executive Sports Editor of the Daily, and Associate Editor of Old McGill. Smith is a Senior Gold debater. At the end of the college year he was victorious in the race for President of the McGill Union, automatically becoming Vice-President of the Students'

Union. He recently was a panelist on the Forums at which the

The Exhibition Series, of which the Faculty Debate is the second, has replaced last years On Thursday Series.

Admission is free and the debate is open to the general public.

Pep Rally Begins Toronto Weekend

McGill will be host this weekend to the University of Toronto at the annual football weekend. To arouse enthusiasm in McGill students a pep rally is to be held at the Union at 7 pm Friday, Nov. 1. Following this preparation McGill students will meet the large group of Varsity supporters expected to sail into "La Ville de Montreal" at 10:30 pm.

On Saturday, following the game, the traditional visiting of the fraternity houses will take place. Afterwards the Union will be the site of a Tea-Dance.

The dance Saturday night will feature Peter Barry and his eleven piece orchestra which is currently playing at Dagwood's. Since this dance will be the last one of the football season, plans are being made for decorations and entertainment to produce a long remembered event.

The background of the entire dance will fall in to line with the Nautical Theme of the Combined Charities. As an added attraction, a number of booths will be set up presenting games in carnival style, including a ring-toss, (which consists of looping the leg of a beautiful co-ed), and a putting green.

The booths will be floated by the Freshmen Reception Committee in aid of the Combined Charities and sponsored by DuPont Company Canada Ltd., Canadian Industries Ltd., J.B. Williams Company Ltd., Steinberg's Ltd., Imperial Tobacco Company Canada Ltd., and Fry-Cadbury Company Ltd. Many types of prizes will be offered, such as; cigarettes, shaving lotion and pandas.

Their Solitary Philosophies

We must remember occasionally that not all the students of this University belong to the gay frivolous carnival that is "college life". Not all students in this place go to pep rallies and join innumerable committees and are in "the swing of things." There are lonely students here, many of them not from Montreal, many not from this country, some are from places where a man does not see the face of his wife until after they are married or where a father has power of life and death over his children. This life is strange to them and they cannot easily become part of it. Many of them are forced to isolate themselves; many may be intolerably lonely.

How harsh and strange must be our college life for many students. It must be a jungle of English tweeds and self-confident smiles and a bewildering number of clubs and lectures and movies and plays and discussion groups. These are all fine things, but for some people they present too great a challenge. When there is a dance it is these students who populate the sidelines. It is these same students who attend dance after dance, in the hope that at one of them, the wall between them and the rest of the world will disappear and they will become part of this collegiate world which the slick magazines tell them is so rapturously pleasant.

We see them many nights at the Union, these men and women who are unable to share the college with us. They may live in small rooms and cook their own food and they may not have much money to spend on entertainments and while people may live alone and not be alone, this happy condition is not for these students. They have only their books and their work — the icy beginnings of a warm vocation — and of these will be in the memories which they will carry with them when they leave here.

We may wave our pennants and yell our yells and wear our raccoon coats and plan our activities and decorate our gymnasium like a battleship, but we should keep in mind that we are not the only students in this college. If there is not yet at McGill a real student community, we must try to create one. We are being unfair to those people who have come here and expect much from the school. We must not make them conform to us. We must accommodate their own solitary philosophies.

The Education Machine

The Americans have done it at last. With the ultimate aim of speeding up the processes of education, they have equipped grade school children with adding machines.

The theory behind this move seems to be very logical. It takes a child a long time to memorize the necessary tables — surely he can learn to manipulate a calculator more quickly. Moreover, children hate arithmetic, but by making a game of it, more of them will begin to enjoy it, and subsequently they won't shun mathematics courses in college. The result — more engineers and scientists.

The question is, will these children ever get to college? The children are supposed to write out the problem beforehand, and then check the answer by using the calculators. When we went to school, any child worth his salt would have had brains and guts enough to do the problem on the machine first and then scrupulously copy the answer onto the paper. Even the odd student who refrains from this might find that he has become totally dependent upon the adding machine as a "check" on his work, much as Linus depends on his blanket.

In our day, not many children hated arithmetic, though of course they were represented as doing so. They remained reasonably well-adjusted and even went through high school without the use of an IBM machine. When they got to college they did not need to use their slide rules to multiply two times two.

It will be interesting to see how this experiment turns out. Perhaps the undergraduate of the future will walk on campus wheeling an electronic brain before him in a wheelbarrow. Or perhaps universities will be forced to institute a course in mathematics 100C.

Letters To The Editor

Cuban Students:
Angry

Sir:

Recent items which have appeared in the Daily concerning the political situation and the line of action taken by the Federacion Estudiantil Universitaria in recent years have been brought to my attention. As a native of Cuba and as a former student of University of Havana, I think I am authorized to speak on the subject.

One important thing to bear in mind is that the government of General Batista is not a legitimate government. It is a military dictatorship which deposed a lawfully elected government by force and maintains this rule only through military power. A state of terror similar to that which Hungarians suffered during the October revolt of last year has prevailed since the seizure of power of General Batista on fateful March 10-1952.

The position kept and followed by the Federacion Estudiantil Universitaria is the line of action of an overwhelming majority of the Cuban people. They have faced arrest, torture, and death during the last five years of the Cuban turmoil. They have been very courageous and they know that students and Federation are always in first place in the battle against Batista.

Jose Antonio Echeverria, former president of the Federation was a student of the Faculty of Architecture. He was in the fifth year of a very promising looking career. He had been president of the Federation for two years. Six months before his death he had been appointed for a third time to lead the Student Body. His classmates gave him the honour to be the first president of the Architecture Faculty to be elected unanimously. When the elections for the presidency of the Federation came along, the twelve other presidents composing the Executive Council chose him to lead the University. So for a third time he was head figure of the students' council. His death has been a severe blow to all of us who knew him and to the cause of the Cuban people. He died the way I know he wished: fighting against the enemies of the Cuban people.

In present circumstances there is no rule of law. Constitutional guarantees are suspended. There is a fierce censorship which was denounced last Friday in Washington by the Inter-American Press Association at its annual conference.

Last week, Times magazine informs us of the death of 40 townspeople killed by government planes as they attacked eight villages near Castro country. This is the sad story in my native Cuba now.

Their last charge is that the revolutionary group is ambitious persons in ninety per cent of the case and 10 percent of politicians without ideals. That is a true picture of Batista's followers. Last Tuesday in Miami, a meeting was held by the representatives of all groups opposing Batista. They issued a statement and some of the most famous and respected names in contemporary Cuban life are behind the declaration.

This is the sad story of my native Cuba now.

McGill Students:
Timid?

Sir:

Congratulations on your wonderful editorial entitled, Isolation or Timidity? The concluding question by the writer, "Is it too much to hope that McGill can match NFCUS' new maturity with the intelligence and courage that it would take to rejoin the organization?", deserves an immediate answer by the Students' Society. There is no doubt that but the answer should be a definite and determined move to rejoin NFCUS.

Situated in Quebec as we are, McGill students are in a better position to understand and foster bilingualism and French Canadian traditions and ideas than any other English speaking university in Canada. Yet our ties with the French speaking universities of this province have been almost nil. Now that we have an opportunity to join with them and offer NFCUS the support it needs, let us not hesitate. NFCUS has, as the writer stated, shown a new maturity and intelligence, that we should be quick to match.

Or will we follow like jackals, and wait for Toronto or others to show us the way?

By comparison with the vacuum tube the transistor is smaller, uses less current, generates little heat and has considerably longer life. It is proving an invaluable instrument for the designers of electrical equipment.

The manufacturing of transistors and their use in new equipment is but one of a number of challenging projects currently being undertaken by the Northern Electric Company.

The solving of Canada's communication problems will give full scope to the enquiring minds and inventive genius of young engineers.

There are interesting careers—and a continual need for University Graduates—at the Northern Electric Company Limited. A letter or postcard to the College Relations Department, Box 6124, Montreal, Que., will bring full information concerning these opportunities.

We all attend McGill for various reasons. Among those are sports clubs, social events, and even study and a broadening of our limited knowledge. Through the CUP we try to accomplish the final end of broadening our scope by corresponding with other college newspapers. This year we are corresponding with colleges from coast to coast.

TRIBUNE CRITICIZES FRESHIE WEEK

● The U. of Manitoba was criticized by the Winnipeg Tribune for its Freshie Week on the grounds that it was partly responsible the high failure rate in first year. The Tribune claimed that after a wild week, the Freshman student carried a distorted idea of the purpose of a college education. In the end, he failed.

CHARGE CHALLENGED BY MANITOBIAN

● ... The Manitoban, in an editorial, challenged this statement. It admitted that the facts in the Tribune were correct, but the reasons were false, the high failure rate "is true of every university, not only Manitoba." Therefore it was not the fault of Freshie Week.

As a solution to the problem, the Manitoban suggested closer study of the high school program, matriculation exam system, and college entrance requirements. Therein the weakness might be.

BUILDING GRANTS

● Government grants have been instrumental in the building of extensions to many of the colleges across Canada. Queen's University was awarded $530,000. towards a men's residence; University of British Columbia obtained $700,000. towards an Arts building.

In addition, Queen's law students found a building erected for them with the compliments of Arts pranks. This addition to the school resembled a birdhouse. At the back, a knothole was covered with the sign, "Register here". The walls were decorated with "Nue Law Skule" and "Do Not Loiter In Halls" signs.

GENTLEMANLY ATTIRE

● The Ryersonian reports that male students will be required, as in the past, to be attired as gentlemen. They must wear ties, slacks and matching jacket, or the new Ryersonian Official jacket.

A similar situation exists at Yale University. In order to have a dignified and neat appearance, Yale men are required to wear ties and jackets at mealtime. This rule is not enforced only on weekends, as it is in McGill's Douglas Hall, but men must wear these outfits at every meal.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

● The "Queen's Journal", by means of a campus-wide poll, has discovered its students' tastes concerning the better things in life: Food.

From the comments we have heard about the food situation at McGill, it seems as if the girls at R.V.C. are quite satisfied. Not so with the freshettes at Queen's. Various adjectives, such as "Unpredictable," "strange" and "just plain awful" were used to describe resident calorie-providers.

It was also discovered at the recent poll that most Queen's men and women eat out at least once a week, and more frequently before exams. "They drown out their sorrows in food".

ALBERTA RECALLS THE PAST

● Did you ever hear of Frontier Day? This is the time at the University of Alberta in which activities from the past are revived. The day is dedicated to log-rolling contests, barrel bucking contests, and firefighting, a boy scout specialty.

The feature event separates the men from the boys. This is a beard-growing contest in which the men are given two weeks to prepare their exhibits.

If there are any specific articles which you would like to see printed in connection with the CUP column, please let us know through the Daily office.

The Royal Doulton China Co. will pay $1.00 to the Women's Union for each girl who takes part in this survey. It is held in an effort to determine women's taste as to modern dinnerware. Each girl will be given a chance to look at the china and then will be asked to answer a few questions concerning its pattern, colour and shape.
